“When I Am Italian: quando sono italiana”

“My Italian village in America was in Waterbury, Connecticut.” In this sentence, Building VI resident Joanna Clapps Herman raises the central question of this book: To what extent can a person born outside of Italy be considered Italian? Joanna will share some of the stories from her new book. There will also be an opportunity for those present to share their own family stories.

The granddaughter of Italian immigrants who arrived in the United States in the early 1900s, Joanna Herman takes a complicated and nuanced look at the question of to whom and to which culture she ultimately belongs.

Joanna Clapps Herman (yes Clapps is an Italian name) is the author of The Anarchist Bastard: Growing Up Italian in America and No Longer and Not Yet: Stories, both published by SUNY Press. She is also the coeditor of two books about the Italian-American experience.

“Funny You Never Knew”

Back for a repeat performance! Please join us for a screening of this film featuring Fred Willard and Kevin Pollak who examine the work of three neglected TV comedians: George Gobel, Imogene Coca, and Martha Raye. FYNK contains generous excerpts of video archival material, giving viewers a chance to see many segments that have not been available for public viewing since the live telecasts first went out more than sixty years ago. The clips also feature such guest stars as James Stewart, Shirley MaLaine, Angela Lansbury, Henry Fonda, and Jack Benny.

Also included are interviews with eye-witnesses of our stars' talents, including Bob Newhart, Lily Tomlin, Carol Channing, Carl Reiner, George Schlatter, Norman Lear, Hal Kanter, Tommy Smothers, Alan Young, Jack Carter, Mitzi Gaynor and Kaye Ballard. FYNK provides not only a look at the forgotten work of three dynamic comedians but a glimpse of a lost era of American comedy.

Karl Tiedemann, (Bldg. II) a New York City native, studied film production at NYU. One of his short films, King of the Z's, led to a stint on the writing staff of NBC's Late Night with David Letterman and an Emmy nomination. He is the author, or co-author, of several comedy plays which have been produced both in Europe and in many of these United States.

Wed., December 4, 7:00 to 9:00 PM
